

THE SATELLITE

The Satellite originates once a year from experiments that took place in the Journalism Laboratory of Glenville High School. The publication has served over one million readers in the Antarctic since the glaciers began glaciating.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Illiterates	$.50
Long Hairs	19.98
Depressed Students	1.00
Polar Bears	Free

STAFF

Editor	Bill Gainer
News Editor	John Dobson
Advertising Managers	Ray Ables, Shay Ables
Circulation Manager	Jewel Carson
Business Manager	Wayne Fluharty
Sports Editor	Alvin Engelke
Assistant Sports Editor	Dennis Burroughs
Feature Editors	Iodine, Little Audrey
Adviser	William 'Wild Bill' Schlick
For compliments	Dial MUD 24U
For complaints	Dial Joe's "Do It Yourself Shop"

STUDENTS NEED FREE TIME!

Glenville high school students do not have enough free time, it was disclosed today by Principal Jamison. However, with the Jamison regime, we feel sure that at least four recreation hours each day will be provided for each student.

Principal Jamison has promised to build at least three recreation rooms, to be added to the high school wing of Glenville high school. When finished, they will contain: six pool tables, four ping pong tables, three juke boxes (one for each room), two indoor swimming pools, one outdoor swimming pool, two tennis courts, and two bowling alleys. Later on, a specially constructed room for eraser fights will be placed behind the building and a bridle path will be put through the woods.

We're expecting Principal Jamison to keep his word!

It's All Fools' Day!

All Fool's Day, or April 1 as we know it, in one respect fools everyone, because no one actually knows when and how its observance was originated.

Some say that it dates from the beginning of time, while others suggest that it had its beginning in France early in the Eighteenth Century. In Scotland, where some believe that it began, the victim of an April Fool prank is called a 'gawk' or 'cuckoo,' since the latter word is almost always used to carry the Staff Takes Over New York 'Times'

Word was received last night here in Glenville that the original staff members of the SATELLITE have taken over the entire publishing process of the 'New York Times', and have changed the name of the famous paper to the 'Hillbilly Herald.'

The entire world was shocked yesterday when the editor of the internationally-known publication fired his old staff members and asked the members of the Glenville publication to fill their positions. And the world was shocked even more when the announcement came over the wire that the name of the paper was changed also.

'This really ain't a honor at all, but it is jest a steppin' stone in bringin' the good ole mountain state's standards to top place in the nation,' remarked Editor Jake Wolfe, former Glenville student and former editor of the SATELLITE. Wolfe further commented, "I'm jest a man of destiny, and by publishin' a paper in this big city, I can spread West Virginia culture everywhere."

The rest of the staff members who were appointed to top positions yesterday, took the news of their appointment quite calmly, and the only complaint to be made by any new staff member came from Jack Floyd, new rock-and-roll news editor, who commented, "The woman situation around here is awful! They jest don't grow'um here in the big city like they do back in them hills of West Virginny."

John Lorentz, another new staff member who was inter-

NEWS FLASH

Principal Ronnie Jamison has released word that, beginning today, students will not be graded on what they make on tests, but that they will be graded on their personality and their participation in extra-curricular activities.

The newly installed principal further remarked that 'students have been accumulating too much subject matter in their heads, and that it's about time for the educational system to re-examine its current philosophy and cater to the philosophy that students should be educated to become social butterflies.'

PRINCIPAL R. P. JAMISON LISTS FOUR NEW COURSES

Four new courses will be added to the Glenville high school curriculum this week, according to Principal Ronnie Jamison.

The art of under-water basket weaving will be taught in room 104 by Miss Esther Williams, a new teacher in GHS.

Crocheting classes will be held during the fifth period in the school library, with Frances Butcher instructing.

Bicycle riding lessons will be offered on the school grounds between the hours of two and three under the supervision of Wills Wells, one of the graduating seniors.

Nick Murin, an expert on flag poles, will hold classes on how to climb and paint flag poles. He will instruct students while sitting on top of the flag pole.

Currey Sells Court House To Hopi Indians For Squaw Beauty Parlor

John Currey, a short, redheaded, seventh grader, added to his fame as high salesman in Glenville high school the past week when he attacked the Hopi Indians with a fist hatchet and forced them to buy the Gilmer County court house for $15,438,697 in order to establish a Squaw beauty parlor in Glenville.

"I was getting tired of seeing mobs of stringy-haired squaws running around our town, and I think such a move will improve the scenery of Glenville," the super salesman replied when asked his motive for such an act.

Mr. Currey's fellow classmates in the seventh grade are also widely-known for their outstanding 'gift of gab' in salesmanship.

Edmund Moore, another red-headed character, has assumed the duty of touring Alaska, where he will sell the people refrigerators and gasoline motors for their dog sleds.

One of the tallest members of his crew, Rodney Jamison, will visit the many funeral homes around the world in an attempt to get mortuary attendants to purchase two-pants suits for more comfortable burial apparel.

Larry Moyers, a warm-blooded salesman, will go to the North Pole by train, where he will try his hand at persuading the sunny region inhabitants to buy power lawn mowers.

Being an 'ole farm girl and knowing the valuable use of four-buckle artics, Wandalene Jones will journey to New York, where she will try to sell shoe strings for 4-buckle overshoes to the residents there.

Since Marilyn Starcher was once a citizen of Florida, she will go back to her home state to see old friends next week and while enjoying the visit the young miss will bargain with her old buddies to try to get them to purchase a well-known brand of fleece-lined jackets and pants.

Glenois' Moore To Give Ballet Course

Glenville high school will have ballet lessons for the first time in the history of the school, it was announced here today by Principal Ronnie Jamison. Mr. Jamison stated he had decided to enter ballet lessons in the curriculum because of popular demand.

Glenois' Moore, prominent French ballet instructor, has been named to teach the class.

"I am deeply honored to be asked to teach in Glenville by my very good friend, Ronnie Jamison," remarked Glenois' at a recent news conference. Mr. Moore, who is very light on his feet for a big man, has been teaching ballet for approximately 20 years. He has taught in Paris, Rome, Pisgah, Vienna, on one's friends, and the SATELLITE staff is doing just this through the publication of this issue of the paper.

(Continued on page 4)

Versatile Glenville Junior Changes Pizza Place For Laundry Business

Opening a new Chinese Laundry with a Grand Celebration, April 1, 1958, will be Carmello Patricia (Louie) Nocida, former Glenville high school basketball and football manager. Replacing Mr. Nocida in his current business, "Patricia's Pizza and Shoe Shine Shop," will be U No Hu, Chinese immigrant who has been managing the laundry business during the four years he has been in the states.

Although Mr. U seemed a bit doubtful as to the future success of his pizza and shoe shine business, he recently remarked, "I could not pass the chance to help anyone so determined to make a success of my beloved laundry business. If I decide to retire in the next seventy years, perhaps Mr. Nocida will bear the load of both businesses."

Jovial Mr. Nocida was bubbling over with joy when recently interviewed by SATELLITE reporters at the laundry shop. His plans include moving the business place to the Auction Barn at the crest of Town Hill, in order to receive more patronage.

Mr. Nocida also plans to have his shop completely redecorated, using the primary colors of red and white. As he has so often reminisced, "Wherever I am and whatever I plan to do, I shall never forget my happy days at Glenville high school! Consequently, he will also place a huge 17 by 20 inch Red Terror figurine on the roof of his establishment to attract all by-passers.

Mr. Nocida has named his shop, 'Two Bucka Shirts', and he urges the patronage of all Glenville citizens, starting April 1, when he opens his new business.

GHS Student Joins Black Hawk Tribe

One shouldn't become alarmed if he should see an Indian running down the halls here in Glenville high school, or a black and white pinto pony hitched to the flag pole out in front of the high school, because just recently, Jimmy Gainer, young Glenville high school student, became a blood brother of Geronimo, chief of the Black Hawk Indians.

Jim's acquaintance with Geronimo began about four months ago when he beat him in four out of five dart games. Since this time the two have become the best of friends.

One week following the close of school, young Jimmy will leave on horseback for the Black Hawk reservation in Abilene, Texas, where he will spend a week learning the fundamentals of playing hopscotch. He will then travel to Geneva, Switzerland, as a representative for the Black Hawk Nation in a world wide hopscotch meet.

"Me and my Chevrolet really have a time runnin' up and down these city cow paths chasin' after news." He further remarked, "Even though we never ketch any facts, we sure do catch some purty good figures."

Glenville Student Recently Arrested

Carl Nichols, Glenville high school sophomore, was arrested recently for shouting on the corner of Main and Court streets and was taken before Magistrate Wayne Fluharty on the charge that he was disturbing the peace.

When questioned concerning his disturbance, Mr. Nichols indicated to the town policeman who took him in that he had been taking voice lessons to increase the volume of his speech and that he was just trying his voice out. The case was argued for a period of three days, and at no time during the trial did young Nichols plead innocent.

During the third day of the trial last week, Magistrate Fluharty revealed that he was releasing Nichols on $15.27 1/2 in fine and on the warning that if he disturbed the peace again with such action, he would be sent to Pruntytown. The magistrate further remarked that shouting on a street corner is the most serious violation of the 1958 code of laws here in Glenville.

The last person who violated such a law here in Glenville was sentenced to serve ten years with the Barnum and Bailey Sideshow as barker for the monkey section.

★ ★ ★ ★
★ ★ ★ ★

hours which are from noon until 2 p. m., says Jamison.

Top Prize Fighters Leave for Europe

Leaving today on a tour of Europe, Canada, and Africa are Carl Devaughn and Francis Butcher, Glenville high school's top prize fighters.

The boys will box in 234 towns, including London, Paris, Rome, and most of the other important cities in Europe.

The two pugilists first decided to go on their tour after a recent exhibition fight held in Arbuckle's bottom. Devaughn, holder of the Sand Box League championship and the Kindergarten Gloves championship, won the fight in a second round knock out.

Proceeds from the tour will go towards putting television sets in the classrooms, says Jim Morris, promoter.

Seven New Rules To Go Into Effect

Seven new basketball rules have been adopted by the West Virginia Athletic Association and will go into effect next year, according to R. W. Dugitt, director of the organization.

The new rulings, which have been under discussion by the committee for five years now, are:

1. A player will only be allowed four goals during one game.
2. No fouls will be called on the players or the team.
3. A severe penalty will be called for playing defense.
4. Long pants shall be required to hide the boys' legs.
5. A guitar instead of a whist-

(Continued on page 4)

Wanted
Car with curtains across back of front seat so I can keep both of my girl friends out at the same time. Contact Jack Floyd.

★ ★ ★
New members for Communist party. Old members had to be done away with. If interested, contact Alvin Engelke.

★ ★ ★
One fully equipped reducing kit. Good condition, one owner. Contact Glen Moore.

★ ★ ★
Two carloads of chewing gum for the chewers of Glenville High School. See Glenville Teachers.

★ ★ ★
Several soft cloths to be used for trophy polishing. Contact Red Terror basketball squad.

★ ★ ★
One slightly used Normantown ring. Will take only on one condition — that owner comes with it. See Margaret Bucher.

★ ★ ★
One red-headed female who is 6' and weighs 190 pounds. If interested, see 'Hump' Moore.

★ ★ ★
A Stout young junior to carry my car across the mud holes in front of my house. See Claudette Campbell or call 4051.

★ ★ ★
One Sputnik in good condition so I can search space for a man. See Miss Goldine Woodford, or phone 2589.

★ ★ ★
A brush and comb set so I can keep Donna Campbell's hair glorified during spare time in my classes. See Ronnie Jamison or call 1438.

★ ★ ★
One person to shine Section 8-B runner-up medal. Call Judy Martz.

★ ★ ★
A chauffeur to drive me to school. Call Marty Hoefler 281 Apple.

★ ★ ★
For Sale Or Rent
One slightly used class ring. See Donnie Hughes.

★ ★ ★
One round trip ticket to Moscow. If interested, contact Alvin Engleke.

★ ★ ★
Several used comic books. If interested, see Louie Nocida.