

ENGELKE SHOWS

Students and teacher agree that the 1957 model text is much easier to understand, but they think the 1880 version is interesting and that the scholars of that time probably had quite a different vocabulary from the students of today.

(Note the spelling of the 1880 text is 'book-keeping' and today's is 'bookkeeping'.)

RED HEADS

feet in height, hail from their adopted home of Caraway, Arkansas at the present.

They are the world's only "Copyrighted" girls basketball team and one of the two teams in the world having copyrights, the other being the Harlem Globe Trotters.

The All-American Red Heads have been featured in several leading magazines and publications. A few are: Bob Ripley's "Believe It Or Not", Life, Colliers, Sports Life and Argosy.

In 1950 these feminine artists set a world record by winning 184 games out of 200 and since 1936 have not failed to win at least 100 games or more each season.

Admission is Adults $1; high school students 75 cents and children 50 cents.

Large Crowds Eat School Lunch

An average of 350 people eat each day in the Glenville high school hot lunch room, says Mr. Bell. The students pay 20 cents per meal, 5 cents less than the maximum, and teachers pay 26 cents per meal.

At the beginning of school $1700 was on deposit in the hot lunch account. Since that time, $2500 worth of equipment has been purchased, says Mr. Bell.

Mrs. O. R. Waggoner, Mrs. Guy Brown, Mrs. H. S. Woofter, and Mrs. Howard Brown do the cooking, with Mrs. Ralph Waggoner helping part time.

PAPER CHANGES TO 'SPUTNIK'

They're naming everything Sputnik nowadays!

One can buy Sputnik belt buckles, Satellite overshoes, or Sputnik grape nut flakes most anywhere to-day.

Undoubtedly a few new-born babes will be named after the tiny Russian Satellite now circling the globe.

Latest change in names has taken place right here in the Glenville school where staff members of the eighth grade newspaper, Junior Satellite, recently voted to change the name of their paper to THE JUNIOR SPUTNIK!
